

add_dataset_name_column_from_rownames.R

June 18, 2026

Contents

|                                                 |          |
|-------------------------------------------------|----------|
| add_dataset_name_column_from_rownames . . . . . | 1        |
| Index                                    | 2 |

---

|                                               |
|-----------------------------------------------|
| add_dataset_name_column_from_rownames         |
| Add Dataset Name Column from Row Names |

---

Description

Adds a 'dataset_name' column to a data frame by extracting dataset names from row names.

Usage

```
add_dataset_name_column_from_rownames(data)
```

Arguments

|      |                                                                 |
|------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|
| data | A data frame with row names in the format "dataset__something". |
|------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|

Value

The input data frame with an added 'dataset_name' column.

Index

`add_dataset_name_column_from_rownames,`
1